

Individual Reflection Week 5

Cecilia Michelsen

What do I want to learn or understand better?

I want to learn how to estimate user stories in a better way. Since I am new to Android Studios it is difficult to predict the hours and points for each user story. This week the total amount of time for the user stories were estimated correct, so we made progress, however there was still some deviation for each user story. Hopefully this will be easier for every sprint when you have more user stories to compare with and gain more knowledge about Android Studios.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

This sprint my coding partner and I worked on a user story where we wanted to have a logo for each company in the company list. Since this was a user story from last week that wasn't completed we didn't start from scratch, but we still struggled to make it work. The user story finally got completed this week, and I can contribute with my knowledge of how to create image views in a list view in a new fragment.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

I had the same roles as last sprint; as a developer of a user story and as a product owner shared with the rest of the team. I was active during discussions of the user story planning and wrote tasks and acceptance criteria's together with the team.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

Together with my coding partner we completed the user story and therefore contributed to the teams deliveries. The logos in the company list were something that the stakeholder had wished for, and therefore this user story added high value for them. I have also been contributing during discussion at meetings, reflections and wrote the team reflection together with the group.
