

Reflection Week 6 - Oscar Helgesson

What do I want to learn or understand better?

Last week I felt that I got some more practical knowledge on how to use pull requests and how to help others digitally, in our case through zoom. Furthermore I really felt I got significantly better at creating and formulating user stories.

I do however still want to learn how to better use pull request to make our workflow more efficient and simple. Of course I can always also become better at providing aid to other in the group digitally. I plan to watch some videos how to pair develop digitally. Furthermore I still feel I can become better at understanding what user stories and tasks that is of the highest priority. We haven't done a bad job with this per se, but I do feel that at least I can become somewhat better at this.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

I feel that I have have a very good knowledge about our project in general as I have worked quite a lot with all areas. I believe I can help with many different things regarding the structure, coding and understanding of methods. I do however feel I can become better at helping other understand themselves than just tutor them through it. By practicing doing this during the later part of last sprint and the upcoming sprint I can become better at this.

Furthermore I have done some additional research on MVVM that we are using this course that I think I can teach everyone a little bit about to make sure we are using it correctly.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

This week I have been active in both the sprint planning and reflection session. I have during the week tried to push towards a more efficient workflow in order to shorten our sprint reflection meetings. I have also been apart of creating the user stories, task and estimates before the sprint started.

Since we made small changes to how we planned our sprints and formulated the tasks I think our sprints have become better at meeting our stakeholders demands and ideas of the product. But I still think we can continue to improve how we plan our sprints to make them even better.

I have also, with everyone else in the group, been apart in the meetings with our external stakeholder and our weekly stand-up meeting.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

This week me and Linnea completed our two assigned user stories. We worked together through zoom and got them both done in time. This week I was unable (due to outside circumstances) to do as much work as I had hoped but through very efficient work me and Linnea managed fine. I also helped other groups complete some of their tasks with greater success than last week. I have also started to look in small refactoring we as a group can do to our code-base to improve it and make it easier to understand, maintain and extend.

I have also together with the group written the Team Reflection for this week.
