

Individual Reflection, WEEK 3

Linnéa Fransson

• What do I want to learn or understand better?

This was the first sprint and I have learned a lot! It feels like some puzzle bites are starting to get in the right places and everything gets clearer by time. I'm more familiar to both Android Studios and Git and starting to understand what different features can do. It was also an awesome thing to see what happened when we all merged our work together. But I think, I have a lot more to learn to be able to do other stuff than we did this week. I also want to learn more about Scrum, and how it is to have a scrum master and a product owner.

• How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

I can help my partner with coding, with knowledges from previous courses but also things I can search up and find at sites like Google and YouTube. I also hope I can help the team with coming up with new ideas or things that can lead to a more structural work.

• What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

This was the first week of using Scrum. I was a developer of a user story, but also a product owner. The product owner role was shared along the others in the team. That role included a meeting with the stakeholder. The meeting went really good and we got some new ideas for the user stories and our continuous work.

• What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

The first sprint was done this week. I was teamed up with Norbert to do a user story that contained a home page with generic information about the fair. We worked together over Zoom and used the screen sharing function to be able to code at the same time. We switched the screen sharing between us, so both could be practicing how to use the program Android Studios. It worked out really well and we came up with a page that included:

- A logo, that was still placed at the top even if we were scrolling down.
- A page that is scrollable
- Information text & a picture
- Buttons to be able to come to "for students" and "faq" pages
- Contact details

I have also been engaged in the meetings with the team. I have been participating in discussions and came up with new ideas and user stories. Me and Norbert were responsible for making the KPI part in the team reflection. We had some good discussions and came up with suggestions for measuring our work. We also had a lot of conversation about things that can be developed in next sprint.
